... RCAF serves U.S.

Canada Going 'Deeper and Deeper Every Day Into the Status of Satellite or Colony' of U.S.

OTTAWA (CP) — Maj. Gen. W. H. S. Macklin, former adjutant-general of the Canadian Army, said Monday night that in the realm of defence Canada is heading "deeper and deeper every day into the status of a satellite, or 'colony' of the United States."

He said the RCAF is organized and equipped has "absolutely no military value or significance whatever when considered by itself as a purely Canadian force."

"The RCAF now is a defensive tactical handmaiden of the U.S. strategic air force, and it is nothing more . . . It is, in effect, a colonial military instrument serving the nuclear strategy of the U.S."

Gen. Macklin, a consistent and harsh critic of Canadian defence policy since his retirement from the army more than three years ago, said "matters will be even worse when the Bomarc missile is substituted for the discarded Arrow jet interceptor."

"This is no more than a simon-pure anti-aircraft weapon of defence against manned bombers. Like the jets it will be utterly useless against other weapons of the near future. It is just as obsolescent as the Arrow."

"It is not even the best available missile of its type. The U.S. Army has the Nike-Hercules already in production and on issue to units. The Bomarc is not yet even fully tested . . ."

"If this process continues we shall have a co-called air force without a single airplane in it without air power will be a national disaster. The army will have to provide its own air transport and its own air support or remain a third-class army."

Gen. Macklin said the navy should have been provided with submarines "long years ago."

The army, with the exception of the brigade in Europe, was not ready for war.

He recommended: 1. Unity control of the armed forces under one chief of staff and bar the deputy minister from the field of policy.

2. Equip the RCAF with aircraft capable of moving men and armaments over any distance and of intervening in a land battle. Reorganize the aircraft industry to produce such planes.

3. Recreate a merchant

4. Equip the army with tactical nuclear weapons and air transport.

AMALGAMATION CHEERS, BOOS GREET REPORT BY EXPERTS

In Mine's Depths

More Bodies Found

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (CP)—Rescue crews Monday night recovered the first bodies of miners trapped at the mystery-shrouded 13,000-foot level of the Cumberland No. 2 colliery here.

Fifty to 55 of 73 missing miners were believed trapped there by the underground surge Thursday night which hurled tons of debris into the coal mine passageways.

Twenty bodies have been recovered and identified. Eighty-one miners have been rescued, including 15 injured.

Meanwhile, sweating crews of kneeling miners continued their inch-by-inch tunnelling through boulders and smashed timbers hiding the fate of the 50 to 55 men working 13,000 feet from the pithead.

Officials held only a remote hope that any of these men would be alive. They are listed as presumed dead.

One of the two bodies brought up from the level was identified as that of Charlie Burton, 44-year-old overman and the first of 88 to emerge alive from adjoining No. 4 mine after a 1956 explosion that killed 39. The other body was that of Carl Mooring.

Red Arrests Stall Revolt

VIENNA (UPI)—Western tourists returning from Communist Romania yesterday reported the Stalinist Bucharest regime had embarked on a terror campaign of mass arrests to forestall any possible Hungary-style freedom rebellion.

According to the reports, many Romanians have been arrested and jailed without the formality of a trial. Families who were high in society during pre-war days are particular targets of the police.

Normally poker face, Vice-President Richard Nixon lets the mask drop to display an expression of seeming gloom. ## Ike Hits Out PITTSBURGH (UPI)—President Eisenhower last night urged all Americans regardless of party to reject the "irresponsible and radical" policies of the Democrats at the polls next week to assure continued Republican prosperity without "flooding" the economy into inflation.

The president pictured the Democrats in Congress as economic villains ready to raid the taxpayer's dollar; the Republicans as "solid . . . sensible" economic heroes of the recent recession who successfully defended the country against "hare-brained" spending schemes of the opposition.

Eisenhower, on his last major political tour of the current campaign, employed the same slam-bang invective against the Democrats that heartened the GOP last week when he used an unusual blasting technique against his opponents in California and Illinois.

Winter Work Action Sped

The provincial government yesterday wired all B.C. municipalities asking for an immediate outline of all municipal work planned this winter to alleviate the winter unemployment situation.

The move was taken within an hour of Premier Bennett receiving a telegram from Prime Minister Diefenbaker saying the federal government proposed to recommend to Parliament an appropriation of 50 per cent of the direct payroll costs incurred by municipalities or their contractors during months of December to April on work that would not normally be done this winter.

Premier Bennett also wired the prime minister asking that like provisions be extended to include labor employed in the accelerated construction of hospitals and public schools.

The premier also announced resumption of the provincial government's winter work program, begun last year.

REGINA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced today that the federal government is prepared to share costs of special winter work with the provinces this year to combat unemployment.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he wired the premier of each province today that the Dominion is ready to share costs of special work in municipalities of any province where the government approves.

The policy would apply in construction of streets, sidewalks and roads—other than arterial roads—water and sewage facilities, and municipal parks.

So that provinces would retain control over municipal activities, only projects approved by provincial governments, and within the scope of the offer, would be eligible for assistance.

B.C. Electric Plea

Lift Road Tax On City Buses

VANCOUVER (CP)—The B.C. Electric Monday asked exemption from provincial road taxes on its urban bus services in the lower mainland and Vancouver Island.

The request was put to a royal commission on road-user charges headed by Henry Forbes Angus, public utilities commission chairman.

Sigurdur Sigmundson, general transportation manager, said more than 93 per cent of its mileage is in municipalities upon roads for which the responsibility for construction and maintenance rests with the municipality and not the provincial government.

Gasoline and diesel fuel taxes paid by the company for running its 348 buses in urban service totalled $240,000 in 1957, Mr. Sigmundson said.

He said compared to operators of similar vehicles, operators of urban buses bear heavier fuel taxes because of the abnormally high fuel consumption in urban traffic. The best interests of the community, "economically and socially," are served by encouraging use of the public transport system, and for this purpose removal of "inequitable taxes" is essential.

Provincial road-user taxes levied against urban transit riders are inequitable because "these people do not have private automobiles and do not use provincial highways," he said.

'I'm For It' Says Scurrah

Mayor Percy Scurrah is for amalgamation, he said last night.

His comment followed presentation of the "Deutsch Report" to a city-Saanich amalgamation committee. (See pages 2 and 32.)

"In view of the fact that in my opinion we must take the long-term view in looking at the future of our city, and because I think it essential to plan for the future, I am for amalgamation," the mayor said. "I think it's going to be necessary to use considerable vision. I think it's also essential that we go into discussions with an open mind, and be willing to both give and take, and not be parochial in our thinking."

"Unless a city has room to grow and unless there is very careful planning for the entire area, as Dr. Deutsch stated in the meeting, there is likely to be decay set in in the downtown area and that would be fatal to the future of the city and to the tax structure, because that is the area of high assessments and high taxable values."

"If that decay sets in, the whole area would be affected, not just the city."

While there would be some disadvantages on both sides, Mayor Scurrah said, from the long-term view amalgamation would be "most desirable."

Distinct Advantages

Saanich Reeve George Chatterton said the report indicates certain distinct advantages in a amalgamation, but declined further comment until he had studied the report further and discussed it with Saanich comptroller-treasurer John Tribe, who provided Dr. Deutsch with information, and Saanich engineer Neville Life.

Dr. Deutsch and members of the council will meet informally Nov. 5 to discuss the report and its recommendations.

Coun. Charles Nelles, a Saanich representative on the amalgamation committee, was enthusiastic.

"It is a magna carta for a real Greater Victoria," he said. "I have no doubt of what people will say in December, but let me warn them . . . There are still a few people who will try to prevent this union from happening."

"GOOD TROUNCING" "I predict Victorians will give them a good trouncing and the city will go on to solve its problems in the way that only a properly united population can do."

Coun. Nelles said he had not heard any dissent, even from people who were against amalgamation before the report was released. Amalgamation would allow institution of many ideas which have been halted through the difficulty of having two councils.

YES AND NO

A random Colonist survey of opinion indicated last night that many city residents favor amalgamation, but those in urban Saanich aren't nearly so sure.

Some felt taxes in Saanich are high enough now for services received, without chancing even a slight further increase through amalgamation, which the report said would be the case initially.

'PADDLE OUR OWN'

Some responses: E. G. Hicks, 610 Agnes: "We would be better off to paddle our own canoe. . . . Saanich has got all it can handle right now and I don't see any way out from under these exorbitant taxes."

Mr. Hicks said his taxes are already exceedingly high, and he has no water or street light services — "when we do get something taxes will really skyrocket."

NO SERVICES

"I am definitely against it," said K. E. Bustin, 304 Brunswick Place, Saanich. "My taxes went up $108 this year alone and we have no street lamps, sewers or other services here. I don't want anything that will send the taxes up even further."

But Mrs. C. E. Lawrence, 1378 Allenby, Saanich, said she agreed that more efficient services would result from amalgamation with resulting eventual lowering of cost to the taxpayers.

IMPROVEMENT

And Mrs. C. W. Mockridge, 1527 Burton Avenue, Victoria, felt that on the basis of efficiency and presumably better services, as well as lower or hold-the-line taxes, "it would certainly be an improvement."

"Certainly the way Saanich is going it looks as though they could use some improvements," she said.

Reds Taste Own Whisky, Find It World's Worst

BERLIN (Reuters)—East German whisky is no rival to Scotch, according to an article in Democratic German Report, a pro-Communist newsletter edited by Britons in East Berlin.

The article said a Communist distillery was promising to market its own whisky.

"I should like to be able to tell you that socialist whisky beats the old capitalist sort all along the line, but I regret to have to tell you that the distillers of Scotland have nothing to worry about. It was undoubtedly the worst whisky I have ever drunk in my life," the writer said.

So that provinces would retain control over municipal activities, only projects approved by provincial governments, and within the scope of the offer, would be eligible for assistance.

Flick of Light Switch Set Off Ottawa Blast

OTTAWA (CP)—Fire Chief Maynard Dolman said Monday investigation of Saturday's midtown explosion has been concentrated on an unused gas inlet

City-Saanich Merger Best Bet in Long Run

By R. O. MARRION

Amalgamation would be to the long-term advantage of both Victoria and Saanich, a three-

Victoria has to provide urban services in excess of the needs of its own residents; Saanich so far has avoided this problem.

"It must be emphasized," the report said, "that this result would pertain to the first year of amalgamation when the potential savings can be realized only partially."

Victoria-Saanich council committee on amalgamation decided yesterday to try to find out what would happen to provincial grants, in event of amalgamation.

There could be substantial changes in provincial contributions to health and highway costs and, in particular, a reduction in per-capita grants.

Remain Asset

Oak Bay Happy Outside

Oak Bay will steadfastly refuse to be drawn into any merger of municipalities, Reeve Fred Norris said yesterday.

He said the Victoria-Saanich merger recommendations of a three-man committee of experts were "purely between the city and Saanich."

"Oak Bay will always remain an asset as a residential municipality, but it would provide no gain to the area as a whole if it entered into amalgamation, and our own residents would suffer higher taxes with no real increase in services," he said.

When large capital expansion plans are involved, as is the case with Saanich, savings can result from amalgamation, Mr. Norris said. But Oak Bay's large capital expenditures are all behind it, he said.

Early Vote Urged

Victoria and Saanich councils will be urged to pass immediately resolutions calling for public referendums on the question of amalgamation.

This is one of the main points in a three-point plan of future action by Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce's amalgamation committee.

Committee chairman Eric Charman said last night similar letters would be sent to both councils this morning, carrying out Jaycee policy of stimulating interest in the question without bias.

The councils will be told that the Jaycees will organize a public forum in the Memorial Arena with speakers for both sides representing both municipalities.

"Because the only adequate facilities for such a forum are in Victoria, we will have tickets distributed on a pro rata basis in Victoria and Saanich," Mr. Charman said.

"The seats will be held until 20 minutes before the panel discussion begins, and any still vacant will be thrown open to the public at large."

If the forum is as popular as expected, a second, smaller forum will likely be held in Saanich, he added.

The third part of the Jaycee plan will be an offer, if no other facilities are available, to have copies of the report printed for sale at cost to interested members of the public.

Australia now has about 74,000 aborigines, compared with 300,000 when the first white settlers arrived in 1788.

yesterday. The committee, headed by Dr. J. J. Deutsch and including city manager C. C. Wyatt and Saanich comptroller-treasurer John Tribe, found in a three-month study that unification would at first raise taxes moderately in Saanich and lower them moderately in Victoria.

But it also found that "after a few years, when all the duplications in administrative overheads have been eliminated and the full economies of a single organization can be realized, the additional savings should very largely overcome the initial rise in tax rates which are indicated in Saanich, and permit a corresponding reduction in Victoria."

Major Advantages

It found, too, these major advantages in amalgamation:

1. Unification could be the most direct way to establish the type of municipal organization best able to cope with development problems.

2. Credit and capital facilities available for the needs of Saanich would "undoubtedly" be improved by the addition of the credit and revenue resources of Victoria.

3. Integrated development could save downtown Victoria from decay and create a "better climate" for business and the prosperity of the whole area.

4. Amalgamation would make it easier to provide additional facilities for which there is a common need.

5. Savings from integrated operations would be substantial.

Inconveniences

The committee reported that "unavoidably, a amalgamation would bring about some temporary inconveniences and some uncertainties."

"Essentially," the committee reported, "the question which the residents of the two municipalities have to decide is whether or not these long-term interests are sufficiently important to them to forego the possible advantages of a greater measure of local self-determination under which reliance would continue to be placed on ad hoc arrangements and less comprehensive methods for dealing with common problems."

Whole of Saanich

As for the mechanics of amalgamation, the three-man group found that the whole of Saanich, not just the urban portion, should be included if unification takes place; that both assets and liabilities should be pooled, and that existing full-time employees of both municipalities should be kept on staff at prevailing rates.

The report gave this picture of the present and future situation: Victoria has been fairly completely developed, while Saanich is faced with rapidly increasing need for water, sewage and street facilities which must be newly constructed and financed.

Urban Sprawl "Ribbon development and urban sprawl" in Saanich have greatly increased the difficulty and cost of providing municipal services.

Victoria receives a substantial part of its revenue from commercial and industrial property, while Saanich has to rely almost entirely, apart from provincial grants, on taxation of residential property.

Expenditures Rising

Total expenditures from current revenues in Victoria have been substantially greater than in Saanich, but those of Saanich have been rising more rapidly due to its greater increase in population.

Victoria's net outstanding debt in relation to net assessment is about 50 per cent greater than Saanich's, but Victoria's debt is for facilities which are nearly complete, while in Saanich provision of facilities will entail heavy capital outlays in the future.

Virtually Stable

Looking five years into the future, the committee found that total expenditures out of current revenues over the next five years "are expected to be virtually stable in Victoria and to show a continuing increase in Saanich."

However, the committee reported, "in both cases it is anticipated that expenditures in relation to net assessment will decline owing to the projected increases in the total net assessments in each municipality."

"This anticipated decline is more rapid in Victoria than in Saanich with the result that in five years the comparative levels of expenditure in the two municipalities in relation to net assessment are expected to be appreciably closer together than at present."

Debt Charges

"The most noteworthy increase is anticipated in respect of debt charges which are expected to rise by more than 60 per cent in Saanich between 1958 and 1963 compared with an increase of 12 per cent in the debt charges of Victoria."

Leaving school costs out of the picture and presuming provincial grants would remain unaltered — although actually there could be a loss of $100,000 in the provincial grants through unification — the committee came up with this forecast of taxation trends:

Taxes Drop

Victoria, it said, could expect total taxes on property per $1,000 of net assessment — not school taxes — to go from $28.36 in 1958 to $25.09 in 1961 to $22.19 in 1963 (using present prices and costs).

Saanich could expect taxes on the same basis to go from $22.05 in 1958 to $21.16 in 1961 to $17.55 in 1963.

Partial Realization

Working on a suggested set of expenditures and taxation policies, the committee suggested that the total of general and special levies per $1,000 of net assessment in the two municipalities in 1959 might be $24.58 in Victoria and $24.32 in Saanich if they were united; $27.50 in Victoria and $21.29 if they were separated.

Report to Sell At $1 a Copy

Copies of the 37-page report on amalgamation by Dr. J. J. Deutsch, eminent Vancouver economist, and his two municipal associates will be made available at $1 a copy.

The Victoria-Saanich council committee on amalgamation decided on that price yesterday. But about 70 "spare" copies already printed will be sent free to the Chamber of Commerce and other interested organizations.

Esquimalt, City 'Unified Enough'

Esquimalt is about as unified in its services with Victoria as it wants to be for the present, Reeve A. C. Wurtele said last night.

Commenting on a report favoring Victoria-Saanich merging, released yesterday by a three-man team of experts, Reeve Wurtele said it doesn't raise the issue of further amalgamation — of Esquimalt and Victoria.

"I don't know of anything that would do the municipality more harm than to be swallowed up into one Greater Victoria," he said.

Esquimalt would not only lose its identity, but would have nothing to gain and perhaps considerable to lose financially and in services performed, he said.

Present joint health and school services with Victoria, and the library service, were sufficient right now, the reeve said.

RESTORED MADONNA

Public Can See Mystery Painting

'Madonna' on Display

The mystery Madonna and Child, a Florentine masterpiece discovered here under an early 19th-century painting three years ago, will be shown at the Art Gallery starting today.

The picture, owned by Mrs. F. C. E. Roome of Vancouver and formerly of Victoria, created a stir when it was discovered under the 19th-century fake also depicting a Madonna and Child.

Colin Graham, curator of the Victoria Art Gallery, discovered "considerable" retouching on the fake and X-rays and removal of a window of paint on one shoulder of the Madonna finally led to the discovery of a much older and more valuable picture.

Mr. Graham says the picture, to be shown for two weeks with masterpieces from the Vancouver Art Gallery, is by a 14th or 15th-century Florentine artist under the influence of Filippo Lippi, Florentine painter (1406-1469).

The exact value of the painting, bought by Mrs. Roome's great-grandfather in Europe in 1773, has never been determined. Photos showing the 19th-century fake and various stages of its cleaning will be shown alongside the original.

Mr. Graham is still puzzled. "Why bother to paint a picture on a perfectly good one?" he asks.

Among the panel will be G. C. Lipsey, president of the association; R. T. D. Wallace, vice-principal of Victoria College; and H. C. Gunning, dean of applied science at UBC.

Pearson Raps Quemoy Defence:

Moral Issue Overdone

MEDFORD, Mass. (CP) — Chinese Nationalists on Quemoy and Matsu should withdraw to Formosa because defence of the offshore islands does not involve defence of principle, Lester Pearson said Monday night.

Peace would become "even more precarious," Pearson said. "If force is to be resisted in every civil war, by the United States supporting one side and the U.S.S.R. the other. Such a doctrine seems to me to be a dubious and dangerous basis for diplomacy."

The offshore island question, he said, "illustrates the unfortunate Anglo-Saxon tendency to make a moral issue of every political problem."

"It is foolish to give the impression that every position you take, or have been manoeuvred into taking, against a Communist government is one based on moral principles from which there can be no retreat or on which there can be no compromise."

Only a "calculated transfer" of one-third of Chiang Kai-shek's forces has made defence of the islands important and it was "bad diplomacy" which allowed that to happen," he said.

RESTORED MADONNA

Public Can See Mystery Painting

'Madonna' on Display

The mystery Madonna and Child, a Florentine masterpiece discovered here under an early 19th-century painting three years ago, will be shown at the Art Gallery starting today.

The picture, owned by Mrs. F. C. E. Roome of Vancouver and formerly of Victoria, created a stir when it was discovered under the 19th-century fake also depicting a Madonna and Child.

Colin Graham, curator of the Victoria Art Gallery, discovered "considerable" retouching on the fake and X-rays and removal of a window of paint on one shoulder of the Madonna finally led to the discovery of a much older and more valuable picture.

Mr. Graham says the picture, to be shown for two weeks with masterpieces from the Vancouver Art Gallery, is by a 14th or 15th-century Florentine artist under the influence of Filippo Lippi, Florentine painter (1406-1469).

The exact value of the painting, bought by Mrs. Roome's great-grandfather in Europe in 1773, has never been determined. Photos showing the 19th-century fake and various stages of its cleaning will be shown alongside the original.

Mr. Graham is still puzzled. "Why bother to paint a picture on a perfectly good one?" he asks.

Among the panel will be G. C. Lipsey, president of the association; R. T. D. Wallace, vice principal of Victoria College, and H. C. Gunning, dean of applied science at UBC.

Pearson Raps Quemoy Defence:

Moral Issue Overdone

MEDFORD, Mass. (CP) — Chinese Nationalists on Quemoy and Matsu should withdraw to Formosa because defence of the offshore islands does not involve defence of principle, Lester Pearson said Monday night.

Peace would become "even more precarious," Pearson said, "if force is to be resisted in every civil war, by the United States supporting one side and the U.S.S.R. the other. Such a doctrine seems to me to be a dubious and dangerous basis for diplomacy."

The offshore island question, he said, "illustrates the unfortunate Anglo-Saxon tendency to make a moral issue of every political problem."

It is foolish to give the impression that every position you take, or have been manoeuvred into taking, against a Communist government is one based on moral principles from which there can be no retreat or on which there can be no compromise.

Only a "calculated transfer" of one-third of Chiang Kai-shek's forces has made defence of the islands important and allowed that to happen," he said.

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (CP) — Money is pouring in from across Canada to aid the grief-stricken community of Springhill, N.S. Thousands of dollars have already been collected from individuals, firms and organizations but plans for a spectacular television program that would raise a hoped-for $1,000,000 in a single night remain indefinite.

Donations to the fund are coming in from scores of cities, unions, churches and foundations.

In Winnipeg Premier Duff Roblin announced in the legislature that Manitoba plans to contribute $10,000.

In Britain, the London Daily Express has suggested the British government give assistance in return for Canadian support in two world wars.

Baghdad, ancient capital of Iraq, now has more motorcars than camels.

The Deutsch Report

DR. J. J. DEUTSCH'S report on the feasibility of amalgamation between Victoria and "all" of Saanich—which he recommends—is a constructive addition to a growing body of reference on that subject. It stresses the metropolitan nature and obligations of the area as the seat of provincial government, the need for a unified plan of urban development and the gains to be earned through elimination of duplicate cost factors. Twenty years ago the Colonist pointed out the advantages of civic union in the whole of the Greater Victoria area by reason of these things. The swift influx of new settlement has only intensified the need.

As a basis for intermunicipal study now, the new amalgamation report brings up to date some of the central and peripheral factors which will have to be taken into account. A first gain would be recognition of the fact that amalgamation is much preferable to any other regional form of co-operation. If Dr. Deutsch is correct in believing all of Saanich as at present constituted should be part of such a merger, is there any reason to leave out Oak Bay and Esquimalt, inseparable parts of the same economic set-up? From the beginning we have believed in amalgamation of all four municipalities occupying the same small strip on the southern end of Vancouver Island. Partial moves can bring only partial solutions. However, a start has to be made somewhere, and perhaps the City and Saanich may become the municipalities to start the ball rolling.

Dr. Deutsch has made an important contribution to the debate by his analysis of both profit and loss on initial terms to Victoria and Saanich. Victoria is 90 per cent physically serviced and improved, but has a high outstanding public debt. Saanich has relatively little debt, but has a tremendous weight of public plant and municipal services to supply before it can match the City in that regard. As the analysis indicates, these seeming irreconcilables will draw together in the future when the population of both areas is approximately even, and the per capita debt can come down.

Not to invent obstacles in the path of civic union which this paper has long advocated, the precise form of Victoria's debt structure will also have to be examined. Until its refunding securities are discharged (in 1972) Victoria will require special consent for any variation of debt structure placed under the trustees of that scheme. This, however, is a matter of form and not any objection to a course which would definitely improve the financial and economic position of both areas.

In the intervening weeks before the December polls there will be plenty of time for the municipalities concerned to study the amalgamation report and its recommendations. Again we say that if this course is good for two municipalities it should be considered for all four of them. Amalgamation means to come together, not to stay in segments.

Where UN Strength Lies

IN pointing out that every one of the 82 members of the UN had an equal say and responsibility, India told the Assembly the other day that disarmament is not the exclusive concern of the major powers. Neither it is, but if the latter cannot agree there is small chance of other UN members doing much about it. Theoretically, and in fact in practice when it comes to a vote, all member nations are on an even footing; but the reality of things cannot be ignored.

The UN was set up while idealism held sway, and in that mood every member was accorded one vote. Their responsibilities have not been equal, nevertheless, for the very plain fact that the major powers keep the UN in being. The four major powers, for instance—United States, Great Britain, France and Russia—put up over 60 per cent of the funds to sustain its operations. The Commonwealth combined contributes 16 per cent of the annual budget, more than the U.S.S.R. If America's share was withheld—the U.S. pays a full third of all costs—the UN would probably collapse for lack of enough funds.

It is a nice theory that all UN members should be equal, but they are not all equal to the responsibility this would entail. The peace of the world exercised through the UN depends ultimately on the strength and influence of the larger, the richer major nations. How could Iceland, Liberia, Haiti and Portugal, for example, compare in total even with France, let alone the U.S.A. It is the major powers that have the means, the experience and the far-flung diplomatic and military assets upon which the UN would have to call in emergency.

The changing shift of UN membership, in fact, as more and more small nations are added to the roll ostensibly with equal rank, is cause for some concern on the part of leading members, particularly of the West. If the latter is to supply the strength and purpose of the UN, yet be at the mercy of a combination of small nations ineffectual in themselves but able to out-vote the West in vitally important matters, then the organization of the world body becomes anomalous in serious degree. For their own preservation, which includes also the preservation of world peace, the West could not tolerate such an unbalanced state of UN affairs.

New Parking Problem

CITY council has in hand a largely-subscribed petition asking for the construction of a boat launching ramp in the James Bay district. From the petitioners' point of view the location would be convenient, offering easy access to the fishing waters around Brothie Ledge and the entrance to the harbor. Profiting from the unfortunate experience of Oak Bay council, however, the City would be well advised to study the choice of sites very carefully.

Launching ramps for small boats are as a rule simple to construct, which makes cost a minor consideration. The selection of sites is most important, however, because experience has demonstrated that use of the ramps can create a parking problem of major proportions. The cars and trailers which transport boats to the launching places take up an inordinately large amount of parking space, and as these ramps are a new development some of the authorities failed to foresee the congestion this would create.

Cars and trailers are left parked for periods varying from several hours up to a whole day, a weekend and sometimes longer. Where the streets are used the practice can constitute a public nuisance and is doing so in the vicinity of the ramp on Beach Drive. As the popularity of small boats grows—and it is doing so at a remarkable rate—the parking problem is liable to become worse.

In fairness to owners of adjoining properties and those who use the streets for normal purposes, councils when selecting sites for launching ramps should make absolutely sure there is adequate off-street parking space for the cars and trailers. This is a new addition to the complexities of the parking problem in general, and demands forethought.

Interpreting the News

Soviet Dam Offer Is Studied

By ED SIMON

Canadian Press Staff Writer

THERE is a strong temptation among Western strategists to brush off Nikita Khrushchev's offer of funds for President Nasser's Nile power project as a propaganda stunt.

The Russians have never been backward in exploiting the possibilities of improving their public relations in the Middle East. The proposal to give Nasser a hand with his long-delayed scheme to build a high-level dam at Aswan will win widespread approval in the Arab world and elsewhere.

The question immediately arises why it has taken Khrushchev more than two years to cash in on an obvious opportunity if he was not prepared to follow it up with action.

The dam project has moldered on the engineers' drawing boards ever since July, 1956, when the United States, Britain and the World Bank, in rapid succession, withdrew the offer of a total of $270,000,000 toward the financing of the Aswan development scheme.

The immediate Russian reaction was a statement by Foreign Minister Dimitri Shep-lov that the Soviet Union did not regard financing of the dam as an "urgent problem." Communist arms shipments to Egypt, the immediate cause of Nasser's worsening relations with the West, continued to take priority over economic assistance.

Considerable water has flown over the Aswan dam since Sheplov's original pronouncement and the foreign minister himself has been quietly shelved in one of Khrushchev's purges. But the Russians, while remaining friendly to Nasser, showed no haste to bail out his pet project.

Now Khrushchev has stepped in with his offer of $100,000,000 toward the first stage of its construction, and a government spokesman in Washington has promptly labelled it as more of a propaganda gesture than an engineering program.

The West's experience with Russian development of the hydrogen bomb and the Sputnik has established one of the most unreliable aspects of Soviet pronouncements. Occasionally they mean exactly what they say.

Thinking Aloud

... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

A MAN popped his head in my office door the other day and said that the English-Russian soccer game would be on TV at a certain time. I did not let him down by saying I'd probably not see it.

But when he went away I had cause to review myself. I must be changing character, for I'm becoming somewhat blasé about sport. I mean that I'm no longer quite so excited about results as I used to be.

Time was, you know, when I was all a quiver until I knew who won, in any one of a dozen lines of athletic competition. As with reading—which I can't live without—I have had a catholic interest in all games. Even though I may not have played some of them as a youth I have absorbed something of their lore and been eager about them.

I still am but in quieter fashion. I no longer feel like the Russian scribes who have been holding post-mortems because England walloped Russia at Wembley last week. They have pretty well gone into mourning over there, and national vitality won't be restored until the score is reversed in a Moscow stadium.

Perhaps international sport is to blame for my malaise. I have stopped regarding victory on this level as all-important. Indeed sometimes I think the world would be happier if no international contests took place; they so easily rouse tempers and bias. People judge others by contact with them, even vicariously, and when the contact is violent and argumentative sweet reason has a poor look-in.

I am not yet withered, however. If I go to see the Cougars play I still feel my blood pressure mount. After all there is much more fun in hoping one team will win than in being too impersonal about the whole thing. Interest is rooted in preference, and if one is utterly academic he'd better stay home.

It is just, I like to think, that my perspective is more mature. The end of the world doesn't arrive if my favorites don't manage to win.

It was when I was overseas this summer that I first discovered this sanity of view. (After all, I am making a dangerous confession and I'd better bolster it with merit.) I took the trouble before I left here to secure tickets for a Scotland-Hungary match and lo and behold, when I sat in Hampden Park, I found myself wrapped in complete calmness. By all the gods of past experience I should have been wildly partisan, but in fact I found myself politely applauding the odd Magyar move.

The game ended in a draw, however, which may explain things a bit. If the blue jerseys had lost perhaps I'd have been blue too.

Another factor may be influencing me. Sport is becoming so statistical it can't be followed unless one has a mental pencil in hand. And you can't do calculations properly with blood raised to riotous heights. (I wish, though, they'd cut out so much figure work. I can't fathom why every goal and penalty, for instance, must be recorded in split-second fashion.)

Of course it might be I'm in this mood this morning because I didn't see that TV soccer game. Perhaps I'm merely excusing my disappointment. Who ever knows himself, anyway?

Reports from Ottawa

PRIME Minister Diefenbaker's decision not to include the Union of South Africa in his globe-circling tour of the Commonwealth has aroused some curiosity.

The big question: Is he snubbing the Afrikaansers as a gesture to the Indians who are barely on speaking terms with their white Commonwealth brothers in South Africa?

If so, other Asians too would approve, for they all resent the policies of racial discrimination against blacks and Asians practised by the Union government.

This speculation is whetted by the Diefenbaker government's action at the United Nations last week in ranging Canada on the side of those who condemn South Africa's program of apartheid, or the separate and segregated social development of the races in the Union. Hitherto Canada always has abstained from taking a stand in UN debates on this question, out of consideration for a sister nation's sensibilities.

But Diefenbaker always has had a strong personal feeling about racial equality. As a boy in Saskatchewan, Indians and half-breeds were frequent callers at his parents' home. Gabriel Dumont, the Metis who was Riel's adjutant-general, was one of the future PM's earliest and warmest friends, regaling young John with stories of the '85 rebellion. A half-century later Diefenbaker campaigned on a promise to give Indians and half-breeds a square deal, and appointed one to the Senate.

Moreover, he has been a strong supporter of the UN Declaration of Human Rights, and now is engaged in having Parliament enact Canadian Bill of Rights—both of which stress racial equality.

The Indians and other Asiatics know this. If Canada had ducked the vote at the UN on the eve of Diefenbaker's departure for the Far East, the PM's sincerity might have been suspect by his Asian hosts, and the purposes of his journey jeopardized.

On the other hand, if he went to South Africa after Canada's vote at the UN, it would be embarrassing to both hosts and guest.

I pointed out to Diefenbaker the other day that he would be visiting "all the major Commonwealth countries except South Africa." He corrected me. It was true in sense, he said, but he also was not visiting Ghana and Rhodesia. "That's another trip," he said.

It is only good diplomacy to indicate that no snub to South Africa is intended, while letting the Indians and their friends take what they will from the fact that the PM won't be going to Pretoria. But at the same time it would appear that, travelling by air, the PM could have included a two-day visit to Pretoria in his itinerary without any great difficulty.

Canada's prestige in Asian eyes undoubtedly took a tumble when Canada spoke for and voted for the U.S. motion at the UN to give a one-year hoist to the question of admitting Red China. Diefenbaker wants to regain the measure of Asian respect that was lost. A visit to Pretoria wouldn't help.

Incidentally, you've heard the story—officially denied—that Foreign Minister Smith refrained at the last minute from serving notice at the UN that this would be the last year Canada would support hoisting the China question.

Day later someone saw Charles Ritchie, our ambassador to the UN, with his arm in a sling, and asked why.

"They twisted our arm," Ritchie replied.

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

IN one of the small villages of a summer resort district, I stopped for an hour to have my brake linings looked at. It is a hamlet rather than a village, with only 20 assorted houses, two stores, a garage and several boat houses. The tourist season being ended, the community has a deserted air.

The stores have taken the tourist bait out of their windows and filled them with what you might call consumer goods—rubber boots, potatoes, winter underwear and cough mixture.

The boat houses are now full of hoisted boats; the garage has several beat-up looking cars in, being taken apart and overhauled.

The young men who worked in the garage, boat houses, stores, have gone out to the big towns. Not many people were about.

An elderly man with a ruddy face in need of a shave, his hands in his pants pockets, his sweater coat open, paused for conversation with me.

"Yep," he said, "my two brothers live in the city. They left here long ago. I stayed. Kinda quiet. But good. My brothers live an awful life. Always on the jump to pay their bills, always in debt. Kids grown up and a big expense. Have to keep up a front all the time. Sorry for them. But they can't borrow any money from me. You see, there ain't no bank in this village. So I don't have any money."

He went into the store.

The garage man, looked up from my car's hub.

"But he's got mighty good credit," said he. "He owns this garage and half the village. He's my old man."

From the lone shieling of the misty island
Mountains divide us, and the waste of seas—
Yet still the blood is strong, the heart is Highland,
And we in dreams behold the Hebrides:

Fair these broad meads—these hoary woods are grand;
But we are exiles from our father's land.

—JOHN GALT

Eisenhower At His Best

By DAVID LAWRENCE

PRESIDENT Eisenhower made the best political speech of his career at Los Angeles last week. It was a great speech because for the first time he outlined clearly the difference between the radicals and the conservatives in America today.

If Mr. Eisenhower could have stressed this theme earlier in his administration it would have prevented much of the factionalism that has weakened his party. But the significant thing is that the president has definitely accepted the path of sound economics and sound fiscal policy as well as firmness in international affairs as basic republicanism. He has also supplemented what Vice-President Nixon has been saying—that peace cannot be assured by any policies of surrender and that the way to deal with Communism is to stand up to it instead of retreating under its pressures.

"Let's consider a significant fact," said the president. "The Democrat party is not one—but two—political parties with the same name. They unite only once every two years—to wage political campaigns."

"At one extreme is a wing whose campaigns were largely settled in southern primaries held weeks ago. At the other extreme is the stronger wing, dominated by political radicals. The campaigns of this wing are still going on. These self-styled liberals are the ones who really challenge sane sound, forward-looking government in the United States. It is against the spread of their radical influence that we are waging this campaign."

The president didn't touch on the issue of compulsory unionization, but he did blast away at labor-union racketeering and blamed the Democrats for failing to put through strong enough legislation to cope with corruption in unions. He said: "To protect American workers and businessmen—to conserve strong, clean trade-unions—the nation needs a Congress determined to settle this issue. That means America needs a Republican Congress."

The president minced no words in inveighing against federal control and socialization of industry. He said the radical Democrats are the ones who try to vest more and more authority in the federal government and "who turn to federal power even where private power can do the job; to governmental housing where private housing can meet the need; to federal domination of agriculture rather than trusting to the initiative and freedom of the farmer; to federal development of nuclear power where private development will best serve the interests of the United States."

That's a complete platform of conservatism almost in itself and the president didn't pull any political punches as he added:

"As a result, the opposition record is one of ever higher taxes, of dollars worth 50 cents, of sky-high prices, of an economy harassed into producing fewer jobs, chronic unemployment, labor strife and fear of the future."

As Mr. Eisenhower sketched his conception of the two rival wings in the Democratic Party, he concluded with this statement: "One is spendthrift—the other conservative. In short, our opposition can offer America only deadlocked government—government that wages war on itself."

This mention of "deadlocked government" is somewhat belated because there has been no question about the political opposition which the president has since 1954 encountered from a Congress controlled by the Democratic Party. He, therefore, declared:

"This campaign, then, gives us a critical choice. Either we choose left-wing government or sensible, forward-looking government; spendthrift government or responsible government; overpowered federal government or government kept close to home; frustrated, stymied government or efficient government able to keep its promise to America."

The president obviously is endeavoring to woo conservative Republicans back to the fold. His speech is the kind they like to hear. Some will remain sceptical, wondering if the precepts will be fulfilled in future policies. The chances are they will be. For it is apparent that Mr. Eisenhower is himself somewhat disillusioned by "modern Republicanism," if by this is meant an imitation of the New Deal and the Fair Deal in their spending habits that disregard the cost to the taxpayer.

The president has a good chance to reunite the factions in his party in the next two years. Irrespective of the outcome of the present Congressional campaign, Mr. Eisenhower has blazed the trail for the 1960 contest. He has cast his die on the side of truly liberal and progressive doctrine which means sound conservatism as opposed to radicalism and socialism.

Breach of Decency

A few minutes before 8 a.m., Friday, a radio news flash announced the tragic fate of nearly 100 miners in the appalling disaster at Springhill: "This public service announcement comes to you through the courtesy of —"

Capitalizing on a national tragedy in order to bring another few dollars to the coffers of the broadcasting company is a flagrant breach of decency and good taste. It also uncovers the gross hypocrisy of commercial hucksters who attempt to disguise radio peddling as a broadcasting service.

The time is long overdue to review the usefulness of these advertising agencies masquerading as public service organizations, and to curtail the incessant barrage of claptrap invading our homes and brainwashing our citizens.

This Island Breed

A year ago today an 81-year-old, Edward Jenner, was in his boat off the shore of Sooke Basin. While pulling in a weighted crab trap he lost his balance and fell out of the boat into deep water.

There was no one on the beach at the time, but Mr. Jenner's cries for help were heard by Barbara Cook, a 16-year-old Victoria high school girl, at a nearby house. She at once ran down to the beach, took off her shoes and skirt, and swam out to the rescue in the bitter cold sea water. On reaching the boat, to which the old man was clinging, she instinctively knew what to do. With her hands on the boat, and with a strength of body and spirit beyond her years, she brought it and the old man and the dragging crab trap safely to the shore, a distance of some 70 yards.

The scene changes. It is Empire Day and the parade is passing along Yates Street. On one of the finest floats made by city firemen, is Barbara Cook, waving and smiling to the crowds along the route. She is the only one on the big float and that is as it should be.

After the float has passed, the mind of an older goes back through the years and he remembers the story of another girl, a story told to every English child around the turn of the century, the story of Grace Darling, the daughter of the keeper of the Longstone Lighthouse off the Northumberland coast. To those who may not know, it was Grace Darling and her father who launched a boat, a coble, during a raging storm and rowed out to the rescue of the survivors of a ship's crew who were clinging to the wreckage of their vessel that had been broken up on the rocks. The story thrilled England for half a century and more.

It is good to know that this Island breed is of the breed of Shakespeare's other Eden and that when a life is at stake there is not lacking a Grace Darling.

Chiang the Bulwark

One of your correspondents calls Chiang Kai-shek a puppet. This statement deserves an answer, as there isn't another man in all Asia or perhaps the world that has fought Communism like Chiang Kai-shek. He did it alone while other cowardly nations stood by and watched Russia engineer the overthrow of his government and instal a real puppet whose every move is controlled by Russia.

No doubt a former United States administration was partly responsible for that catastrophe, as it knew what was taking place in China and didn't do anything about it till it was too late.

However, President Eisenhower sees Communism in its true colors and is supporting Chiang Kai-shek because he is the strongest bulwark against Communism in all Asia. People who belittle Chiang Kai-shek are puppets themselves whether they know it or not, as they are just repeating Communist propaganda which comes direct from Moscow. Furthermore they know little about Communism or they wouldn't say let each nation choose the kind of a government it wants without interference from other nations.

Cardinals Undecided After Eight Ballots

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Plumes of black smoke from hastily-installed generators in the secret conclave of cardinals Monday signalled their second straight day of failure to elect a new Pope of the Roman Catholic Church.

The tempo of the voting quickened Monday and the results were announced faster than they were Sunday. Some Vatican observers said this might mean that the 51 cardinals felt a decisive vote was imminent and might come today. But there was no way of telling.

A total of eight ballots, four yesterday and four today failed to give any candidate the necessary 33 votes for election as 262nd pontiff of the church.

Unlike Sunday, when billows of white smoke from the stove-pipe atop the Sistine Chapel conclave led the world to believe one of the cardinals sealed up for a few tense minutes that a in the chapel was ailing. It was Pope had been elected, the believed to be Nicola Cardinal Canali, 83, the senior cardinal deacon and the man who by tradition announces the new medical documents and an am-Pope to the world from the balcony indicated that at least one of St. Peter's.

VANCOUVER (CP)—One man was killed and two others slightly injured Sunday in the derailment of a CNR freight train, one mile east of Mission in eastern B.C.

CNR officials here identified the dead man as W. A. Preece of Kamloops, fireman on the train. An engine man, identified only as Mr. Martin of Kamloops, suffered a broken nose and facial lacerations. A third man, D. Veach, also from Kamloops, was slightly injured.

The baby feels secure...but is he?

Family safety involves more than physical protection. There should be guaranteed financial security. Millions of Canadians get this through Life Insurance. They own more of this valuable property, in relation to national income, than any other people in the world.

Waste no time worrying about that small boy. He has a two-fisted grip on security. He belongs to a family which considers Life Insurance an essential part of its progress towards financial security.

Friendly, helpful agents have shown 7 1/2 million Canadians what a valuable property life insurance is. Every year an increasing number of families buy life insurance as their major source of family and personal security.

Canada is rich in families that treasure life insurance as a present pledge and future promise of security obtained by their own initiative.

Theft from Trust Particularly Bad

Stealing is bad at any time, says Magistrate Henry Hall, but it's particularly bad when done by someone in a position of trust.

He made this comment in Esquimalt police court yesterday when former Esquimalt municipal stenographer Mrs. Betty J. Cosh, 2315 Cook, appeared for sentence.

She pleaded guilty last week to theft of $46 by retaining monies paid into the municipal office.

Magistrate Hall noting that Mrs. Cosh had never been in trouble before, suspended a sentence of six months and placed her under a $500 good behavior bond. He ordered that restitution be made from her final pay cheque, still being held by the municipality.

Youthful Patrick O'Hara, of Menzies Street, another first offender, was also sentenced.

O'Hara's crime — theft of a leather jacket from the Hudson's Bay Store — was termed "stupid" by Magistrate Hall yesterday, in passing sentence in city police court.

Keeping Roads Clean Now Fun

Kids Collect Litter to Feed New 'Garbage Gobblers'

Children and adults are helping to keep the roads clean by collecting litter to feed new 'garbage gobblers'.

The 'garbage gobblers' are a new type of bird that has been developed by the government. They are designed to eat only the litter that is thrown on the roads. This helps to keep the roads clean and free of trash.

The children and adults who are participating in the litter-picking activity are helping to feed these birds. They are collecting litter from the roads and putting it into bags. The bags are then taken to a special feeding station where the 'garbage gobblers' are kept.

This activity is a fun way for children and adults to help the environment. It also teaches them the importance of keeping the roads clean.

Do you own a 2-bedroom home with a basement that you want to sell? I have a genuine investment client with $12,500 cash who will pay $100 a month for a home in the COLWOOD DISTRICT. Call me immediately. I have a positive attitude. Viv Lewthwaite, EV 2-2157, Northwestern Securities of Victoria Ltd.

Do you have a home for sale that is different? One that is not just "another house on a street." My client has asked me to find him a place that is smart and spacious. Must have 4 rooms—2 bedrooms, full dining room, bathroom, preferably modern, nice view. He likes the type of home with patio, barbecue, punning room, etc. Must be high on a hill or waterfront. Just something that's out of the ordinary. He's not hard to please. Name him. He would prefer something around $15,000 but will go to $20,000 if it's right. "THE PRICE IS RIGHT." See Smith, EV 2-2157, Northwestern Securities of Victoria Ltd.

John D. Off Today On World Tour

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker leaves by air today on his "good neighbor" trip around the world—a 15-country journey aimed primarily at getting to know better Canada's Commonwealth partners in Asia.

The RCAF's C-54 luxury airliner will carry him on the 54-day journey, returning to Canada five days before Christmas.

Three weeks have been set aside for visits to five Asian countries.

Mr. Diefenbaker, in a speech last week, said the tour was based on the desire to "get to know your neighbor better."

There have been some thoughts by government officials about an African visit by the prime minister next year.

Mr. Diefenbaker will visit Pakistan, India, Ceylon, Malaya, Indonesia and Singapore. His Asian visits starting Nov. 14 will be preceded by one week in the United Kingdom and a week-long European trip.

ROME—A Rome tribunal has postponed until Oct. 31 hearings on an appeal against a court ruling annulling the proxy marriage of Ingrid Bergman and Roberto Rossellini.

'Not Here to Marry' Sinatra Tells London

LONDON—Frank Sinatra last night told a laughing audience, which included Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh, "I did not come to London to get married."

Sinatra brought up persistent newspaper reports that he was courting Lady Beatty, American-born divorced wife of Earl Beatty, in introducing Danny Kaye and other stars at the opening of the film, "Me and the Colonel," the first royal premiere of the year.

"According to the newspapers here," he said, "I've been married more times than Farouk and I'm not even as fat as him."

COLUMBO, Ceylon—Canadian Finance Minister Donald Fleming told a press conference today that he has decided to recommend further $600,000 assistance to Ceylon to continue an aerial photographic survey of the country's natural resources.

PESHAWAR, Pakistan—Tribal chiefs of Khyber Pass Sunday presented U.S. Defence Secretary Neil McElroy a pair of sheep as a token of tribal hospitality. They were returned to the tribesmen to be slaughtered in McElroy's honor.

LONDON—Prime Minister Macmillan announced that austerity restrictions on installment plan buying of cars, TV sets and appliances would end Wednesday. Action came on the eve of the opening of Parliament and the kickoff of a Conservative party election campaign.

BEDLINGTON, Eng.—Bedlington officials admitted today they were scandalized but said they couldn't do anything about Kenneth Dixon's choice of a prize he won in a scholarship contest. Kenneth 14 chose "Peyton Place" on grounds it was a best seller and he had seen a film based on it. Northumberland County librarian Ruth Baker said, "I think it is a very unsuitable book for a boy of that age. It is an awful book and it is awful sexy."

WASHINGTON—National Press Club has invited former president Harry Truman and Vice-President Richard Nixon to play a piano duet. Nixon had said he and Truman would make peace "when the National Press Club invites us to play a duet." Club officials quickly obliged.

VANCOUVER—George Kenwood, executive secretary of the B.C. division, Canadian Mental Health Association, says mental institutions in the province are operating on about 50 per cent of necessary staff and funds. "I believe the situation here is worse than anywhere else."

I was a sleepless wreck

My nerves grated from lack of sleep. Indigestion bothered me. I felt jittery, depressed, drained of all ambition and energy.

Some people suffer unpleasantness because their systems are aggravated by elements in everyday beverages. This is particularly true of those with "nervous" temperaments.

While some people can drink tea, coffee, cocoa and some soft drinks without harm, others cannot.

Postum does not contain stimulants such as caffeine, theophylline or theobromine which can rob you of sleep, irritate your nerves, speed up pulse with subsequent depressing let-down. Postum does not contain tannin to give you indigestion, nor any other ingredient to cause you harm.

Switch to Instant Postum, the beverage of comfort! Postum tastes and acts like no other beverage. Postum has its own distinctive flavor. Make Postum instantly, right in your cup. Just add freshly boiling water, or hot milk, stir and enjoy.

Try Postum for 30 days. When nerves are soothed, you sleep better, feel better, look better. Get Instant Postum at your grocer's. Costs less than 1¢ a cup. A product of General Foods, Limited.

Civic 'Quiz' Explains Amalgamation Issue

Much remains to be decided before Victoria and Saanich can know the exact results of amalgamation, Dr. J. J. Deutsch made clear yesterday.

Reporting to the Victoria-Saanich amalgamation committee, he said setting on new policies and new programs for the whole area would take much negotiation.

One of the big questions to be answered, he indicated, was the extent of new development to be paid for from general taxation and the portion to be paid for by local improvement or special area taxation.

MUST BE FACED

Coming to agreement on questions like this, Dr. Deutsch said, was a practical difficulty which would have to be faced. He advised councils against being "too pernickety" in negotiation.

The intermunicipal committee accepted the report of Dr. Deutsch's three-man committee and will take it back to the two councils. Dr. Deutsch has been asked to meet Saanich council Nov. 5 to discuss it further. All members of Victoria council but Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow were present yesterday, and so it is unlikely he will be asked to confer directly with city council.

MAY TAKE ONLY YEAR

Both councils are expected to put the question of amalgamation to property owners in December, and Dr. Deutsch and City Manager C. C. Wyatt both expressed the opinion that if unification were approved by the ratepayers and by the councils, it could be accomplished in a year.

Dr. Deutsch told the intermunicipal committee he didn't want to gloss over the practical problems, but said that he thought amalgamation was desirable even taking into account the practical problems.

Dr. Deutsch's meeting with the committee took the form of a question-and-answer session. Here are some of the questions and replies:

Reeve George Chatterton of Saanich: Couldn't the Capital Region Planning Board's plan for the development of the whole capital region take care of proper development of Victoria and Saanich?

Dr. Deutsch: Yes, but amalgamation would be the most direct and effective and quickest way.

Coun. Charles Nelles: Would not Victoria and Saanich make an almost perfect municipal unit?

Dr. Deutsch: Yes, with the big downtown area and the room for growing.

Reeve Chatterton: If Saanich passed a subdivision control by-law, would not the borrowing picture change entirely from the forecast in the report?

Dr. Deutsch: Saanich would still have a heavy program of capital works. Saanich could postpone it, but would have to face it sometime.

Coun. Nelles: I submit that amalgamation is not going to raise Saanich taxes $1.

Dr. Deutsch: We say the immediate effect might be a small increase, but in relatively few years Saanich taxes won't be any higher with amalgamation than without.

Reeve Chatterton: Can the increase be cushioned?

Dr. Deutsch: There is room for a little adjustment this way or that. It depends how you treat local improvements and special areas. This is the sort of problem you have to work out and win agreement on.

Mayor Percy Scurrell: Will services be better?

Dr. Deutsch: Well, they should be better; there would be a small improvement from the beginning.

Ald. Austin Curtis: Quite a few Victorians take the attitude that they wouldn't want amalgamation because of the "awful lot of money" that has to be spent in Saanich.

Dr. Deutsch: It depends on the kind of policies you set up. The report makes suggestions on the division between development from general taxation and local improvement taxation.

Reeve Chatterton: How would Saanich benefit from the addition of Victoria's credit? Was it right that Saanich hadn't begun to touch its credit capacity?

Dr. Deutsch: Yes, but amalgamation would be the most direct and effective and quickest way.

Coun. Charles Nelles: Would not Victoria and Saanich make an almost perfect municipal unit?

Dr. Deutsch: So far, but you're on the verge.

Ald. Curtis: What would be long-term advantages for Victoria?

Dr. Deutsch: If the whole area develops in a sound way, business is going to benefit.

Ald. Hugh Ramsay: Could Victoria operate successfully as a tight little island?

Dr. Deutsch: As an outside area develops, sometimes there is a tendency to decay in the central area. Commercial life moves out. One reason for decay is inadequate planning for the area as a whole. Here you have an opportunity to avoid that sort of thing.

Ald. Ramsay: I understand it would be pretty well a sawoff between debts and assets?

Dr. Deutsch: Victoria would be putting in a bigger debt, but also a lot more assets. There wouldn't be much inequity. If you're willing to take the long-range view it's very worthwhile trying to work it out. If you are going to be too pernickety about every little detail, you are going to have a long job. You'll negotiate for a long time and it will never come off.

Salt Spring Parents Up in Arms

GANGES—A heavy rash of smoking by children on the streets here, which was prevalent down to the 11 and 12 year-old level, is being severely stamped on.

The board of trustees of School District 64 (Salt Spring), at a recent meeting, ordered principal John Foubister of the School to take "full disciplinary action" against any smoking by students on the school grounds or anywhere during school hours.

The RCMP on Salt Spring Island is providing "full co-operation" and has promised strict action against any merchant selling cigarettes or tobacco to minors, children under 16, trustees' chairman Douglas Dane said last night.

A letter from a concerned parent started the action.

"The situation has come up about once a year, but the smoking has never been so prevalent as at this time," Mr. Dane said.

"It was getting bad enough for the parents in complain, and that's usually pretty bad," he said.

"It was getting about as prevalent in Grades 6, 7 and 8 as it was in Grades 9, 10, 11 and 12," Mr. Dane claimed.

The smokers included many girls, he said.

Older students, aged 16, 17 and 18, influenced the younger ones by smoking on the streets, children. The principal has been ordered to confiscate any cigarettes or tobacco found on board has the power to expel students.
